

Rarity of Eye Color In Human Population Groups Worldwide

This academic article will show the reasons why and prove scientifically why Hazel eye color is one of the rarest eye colors in the world among all human population groups including Scandinavians. It will also demonstrate that Scandinavians have a higher prevalence of Hazel eye color over blue eye color. This article will also heavily source and prove scientifically that blue eye color is very common among most population groups in the world.